Sitemaps :

The screenshot shows the 'Sitemap' configuration page in WordPress. The page title is 'Sitemap'. Below the title, there is a subtitle: 'Choose your Sitemap configuration and select which type of posts or pages you want to include in your Sitemaps. Learn more.'. The main configuration area is divided into three sections: 'Sitemaps', 'Include Images', and 'Public Post Types'. The 'Sitemaps' section has a toggle switch that is turned on. Below it, a note states: 'XML Sitemaps help search engines index your website's content more effectively.' The 'Include Images' section has a toggle switch that is turned on. Below it, a note states: 'Include reference to images from the post content in sitemaps. This helps search engines index your images better.' The 'Public Post Types' section has a link 'Select / Deselect All' and two checkboxes: 'Posts' and 'Pages', both of which are checked. Below this, a note states: 'Select post types to enable SEO options for them and include them in the sitemap.' The 'Public Taxonomies' section has a link 'Select / Deselect All' and one checkbox: 'Categories', which is checked. Below this, a note states: 'Select taxonomies to enable SEO options for them and include them in the sitemap.'
